Now BUBBA|TWO from Excito Makes it Easier for Users to Enjoy Media Collections

Malmö-based company Excito AB today announced that Excito NAS/Home server BUBBA®|TWO now ships with Logitech's SqueezeCenter preinstalled and configured and ready to run with any Logitech Squeezebox™ or Transporter® network music players.

BUBBA®|TWO is a mini server/NAS with an exceptional range of services, from a number of streaming servers, via a web based file manager to a complete mail server with integrated webmail and address book. Spice it up with complete router and firewall functionality in what has to be the physically smallest available mini server using 3.5" disks (4.5x1.8x7.3 in).

SqueezeCenter is software that delivers your personal music collection to Logitech's® high quality Squeezebox™ WiFi players. The Logitech Squeezebox family includes Squeezebox Classic, Squeezebox Duet Squeezebox Boom, and Transporter®.

By including SqueezeCenter on the BUBBA®|TWO, this gives the user experience that a user expects: "Just add media" - it does not have to be harder than that.

What is also new is that Excito, as the first manufacturer of miniservers, can offer BUBBA®|TWO with solid state disks, which makes the already very efficient design even more power-efficient and completely silent.

BUBBA®|TWO is designed and manufactured in Sweden, which is a part of Excito's strategy to deliver products that stand out in quality as well as usability and performance.

About Excito

Excito was founded in 2002 with the goal to develop, produce and sell platforms to the industry - building blocks for all types of industry- or consumer products that other companies use as leverage to shorten time to market. In 2006, Excito moved on to work with consumer products with the goal to build easy to use infrastructure in the digital home.

BUBBA®|SERVER was launched during the summer of 2006 and was an immediate success, praised by the trade press. The new version, BUBBA®|TWO with major upgrades to both software and hardware was launched as late as last summer and was received with the same enthusiasm as its precursor.
